

Development 360 Application 2017

This application is for review purposes only – for your application to be considered, you must fill out an online application here

Development 360 is a mentoring program for ULI Colorado Young Leaders, to educate them, through in depth, project-specific information, about the development process. Participants who apply and are accepted through a competitive application process, will attend 7 planned sessions over the course of 3 months. They will learn about the development of a specific project or case study through planned curriculum, facilitated and taught by the project's developer. This program is a more rigorous version 2.0 of ULI Colorado's Partnership Forum. Participants must have completed at least one year of the Partnership Forum to be eligible to participate. Please have your ULI Membership ID and a current biography ready to complete this application. A letter of reference from a more senior real estate professional or colleague is suggested, however not required. Letters of reference can be uploaded at a later point in this application.
